

FTA Final Touch audio

Final Touch Audio (FTA) is a small family company being born out of pure love and dedication to music. It combines technical proficiency with the artistic craftsmanship as each one of our products is completely made by hand. Our products are not mass produced and they are rather treated as pieces of jewelry which real connoisseurs come to appreciate.

Through years of trial and error we have perfected our designs and manufacturing principles and practices to the level when we feel confident that our products will serve you and give you pleasure in many years to come.

As we like to say there is one goal driving us forward and serving us as our purpose in the quest for sublime sound – we want to help you extract each note from your system.

Developing Callisto USB cable we have set to ourselves a target to explore and use different types of materials than the rest of the industry is using and set us apart from modern trends.

Sometimes deviation from current regular practices and trends might bring tangible results and our firm belief is that with Callisto USB cable we managed to achieve that. We looked into the history and laid our eyes on how the Katana swords have been produced. Special attention was given to process of forging and hammering. We decided to use a copper wire which is not purified and possesses a significant amount of Gold and Silver particles inside the wire. Wire has been mechanically treated (hammering) in order to achieve desired gauge and technical specification.

Combination of this copper wires with hand build dielectric has made Callisto USB cable to be unique product on the market in terms of materials used, build quality and as a result of those sound quality. It for sure will help extract each note from your system.
